

Technology Quarterly and Proceedings of the Society of Arts, Vol. 7 (Classic Reprint)

Excerpt from Technology Quarterly and Proceedings of the Society of Arts, Vol. 7. The Society of Arts, established in conformity with the plan of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology as set forth in the act of incorporation, held its first meeting on April 8, 1862. The objects of the Society are to awaken and maintain an active interest in the practical sciences, and to aid generally in their advancement in connection with arts, agriculture, manufactures, and commerce. Regular meetings are held semi-monthly from October to May. The Society has discontinued the publication of the Abstracts of Proceedings and now publishes its proceedings and the principal papers read at its meetings in the Technology Quarterly. The present volume contains the proceedings from January, 1894, to December, 1894, inclusive. The Quarterly contains, also, the results of scientific investigations carried on at the Institute, and other papers of interest to its graduates and friends. Neither the Massachusetts Institute of Technology nor the Society of Arts assumes any responsibility for the opinions or statements in the papers.
