

Mirisens Notebook (Allisens Notebooks)

Allisens super-smart little sister gets a chance to talk in this e-short! Mirisen Zepetto has a lot to say about her family, her friends, and what its like to be a 10-year-old seventh grader. While Allisen is dealing with a strange-acting friend and an even stranger Valentines Day card (Book 18, Happy Hearts in SEVENTH GRADE WITH MY FABULOUS FRIENDS, MY NEW NEIGHBORS, AND ME), Mirisen is busy with some problems of her own. Will the kids at her friends school ever stop being so annoying to her? Will she ever be able to convince her parents to let her have her own room, rather than sharing with her messy younger brother? Will she be able to choose between Steven and Domacie, without regretting her decision afterwards?

SAMPLE: (510 words out of 8,267) So, said Steven once wed all stopped laughing so much. Mirisen, theres a dance on February 16th. Do you want to go to it with me? I hesitated slightly, then responded, Umlet me get back to you on that. Steven looked crestfallen. Hastily, I patted him on the back. Its not that I dont want to go with you! I do! JustDomacie Cooce already invited me to one at his school, on the same day at the same time. I saw my friends exchange glances. They knew about Domacie. In fact, there was a time last year when they used to tease me about him, saying we were in love with each other. I was very upset with them for a while, before I let them know how much that bothered me and they stopped doing it.

Now that theyve met Domacie (at the dance last February, and at my birthday party in November), they make other comments about him. You still hang out with that kid? Michael asked incredulously. Wouldnt it be kind of, ah, boring to go to a dance with him? Cameron questioned. Since all he ever talks about is himself? I thought you didnt like him anymore, said Emily. Its complicated, I sighed. Do I like Domacie? I dont know. He can be very nice. He can also be very un-nice. (I know un-nice is not a word.) For example, at my birthday party in November, he gave me two very nice gifts (a $30 gift certificate to the Lindt store and a beautiful necklace), but he also was a little bit rude about the fact that Stevens family sometimes has to eat at the soup kitchen. Weve had some good times together, such as the time at our crazy school when we wrote a book called How to Annoy Your Classmates and then used our own tips on our other classmates. Weve also had some not-so-good times, like when he got mad at me last summer for going to the end-of-school dance with Steven rather than with him. Thats another reason I feel like I should go to this one with Domaciebecause I picked Steven last time, and Id want to be fair. Hes rude, Michael said bluntly. And plus, I thought you hated his school. Why would you want to spend any more time there? I shrugged miserably. I feel bad for him, thats all. He already bought a five-hundred dollar tux. Itll just be a waste of money if I dont go. Did he ask you to the dance before or after he bought the tux? asked Emily. Wellbefore, but If he bought a tux before he asked you to the dance, he must have wanted it anyway, reasoned Steven. Or he thought for sure Id say yes, I mumbled. But thats like bribery! protested Cameron. Mirisen, come on, dont let him be the boss of you. You can make your own choices. I know I can make my own choices. Thats the hard part sometimeshaving to make the choice.
