A Day of Value

Every day my daddy left for a place called work. He woke up early to get ready and put on his ironed shirt. Why do you work each day? I asked, wonder filling my eyes. My daddy just looked down at me and gave a heavy sigh. Sometimes its hard to explain to children why parents do the things parents do. In A Day of Value, author Jessica Whisenant helps parents teach their kids about living life with a sense of purpose and responsibility.
